Disclaimer of association Follow This

Follow This is an association and aims to move the oil and gas industry to become a sustainable energy company. When one becomes a member of Follow This, they agree to support this goal.

Follow This acquires shares of oil and gas companies at the request of members and/or exercises voting rights on shares of oil and gas companies on behalf of members, however, Follow This is in no way an investment institution, association and/or company or otherwise an entity supervised by the Financial Market Authority. Membership of Follow This therefore does not qualify as a financial product subject to financial supervision.

For more information about Follow This and membership, please refer to the Frequently Asked Questions, the articles of association and these general terms and conditions and any other information on the website.